

KARI WESTPHAL (WA)

Reflect: red tide, encaustic, on birch panel, framed in natural wood float frame, 8 x 8 inches

There are days when waters are thick and your heart is anxious; and there are places that soothe even in the midst of those obstacles. This painting explores a favorite place deeply affected by warming seas and algae blooms; showing you the beauty of place that fights through circumstances brought on by global warming.

Artist Statement
Kari Westphal