

KATHIE COLLINSON (IL)

Chaotic, encaustic paint on cradled panel, 6 x 6 inches

The inspiration for this piece was always global warming. In this piece, I wanted to represent the world - waves (the movement of water), nearby hills leading to fields and distant mountains with the sky and the sun. While such recognizable shapes and textures are present, the colors, overall appearance, and feelings they evoke are very different.
